ARCQE Presents

Block Play - Building and Learning

“Children have always built, testing their theories about the physical and social world. They stack units, knock them down, enclose spaces, bridge gaps, and repeat and refine ideas—often without the intervention of adults or the introduction of commercial materials.” (Hewitt, 2001) Block play is a staple in all early childhood classrooms. This interactive workshop takes a look at the stages of block play and materials that support whole child development using this type of play.

This sessions explores:

1. The role of adults in identify interests related to block play
2. Setting up a developmentally appropriate Block Play Environment
3. Possible Building Materials & Environmental Checklists
4. Creating Documentation Panels supporting learning through Block Play
