ARCQE Presents

Learning to Cook=Cooking to Learn

“Cooking activities are intrinsically appealing to children as well as being rich in opportunities for learning. With a well-planned cooking program, teachers don’t have to sacrifice developmentally appropriate practices to help children achieve important learning outcomes.”(Colker, 2005) This workshop supports hands-on strategies to include cooking in the early childhood classroom. This workshop explores:

1. Setting up a Developmentally Appropriate Cooking Environment
2. Putting Health and Safety First
3. Cooking with Families
4. Using Recipes with Young Children
