ARCQE Presents

Emergent Curriculum

Register
Early

How can I plan to meet the individual developmental needs, abilities, and interests of the children in my care? If you have asked this question as a caregiver/provider or an administrator, ARCQE invites you to enrol in this up coming workshop entitled Emergent Curriculum. Participants will become aware of strategies that will enable them to become sensitive observers of children as well as to develop program planning skills based on the children's evolving interests and specific developmental needs. The Emergent Curriculum workshop is about inspiring a process of renewed enthusiasm for the way program planning is conducted where children are the teachers that guide the direction learning takes. With 60% of the Accreditation rating based on "Interactions & Daily Planned Activities" this session is a wonderful "hands on" strategy in assisting front line staff in reviewing and articulating the values of program planning for children in their care.

Deliverables: The Emergent Curriculum workshop will provide participants with a number of concrete actions that will demonstrate how they will address and provide "evidence" To the following:

Develop Child Portfolios that gather information about individual child development and interests, (learn to create meaningful records & files as well as what to gather and collect).

How to reflect children's interests and abilities by implementing the emerging curriculum philosophy through program planning, (creating a process to record observations, and new ways of guiding and capturing program planning ideas).

Communicating what we are learning about children to families (Creating a living diary of children's progress- Translating what we know through creation of Documentation Panels)

Fee: $40.00 PTL Program Member $60.00 Non-Member • Handouts relating to the workshop. • Course certificate for successful completion of the workshop.
