Enhancing Pro-Social Skills in Young Children

You know that “Young children are not born with social skills: they learn them.” But have you ever struggled with getting a toddler to share, a 4 year old to be less demanding, and/or quiet children to assert themselves?

This interactive workshop explores how adults working with young children can support them as they develop socially and emotional.

Participants will:

- Understand the importance of encouraging social/emotional development.
- Become familiar with social /emotional developmental milestones.
- Describe the importance of building relationships with children
- Recognize the important role of the environment in developing social skills.
- Identify strategies to build positive relationships.
- Be able to identify friendship skills and how to teach them.
- Define emotional literacy and identify activities that build “feeling vocabularies.”

Fee: $40.00 PTL Program Member $60.00 Non-Member • Handouts relating to the workshop. • Course certificate for successful completion of the workshop.
